ABOUT BROOKE ANN BARARD

PRESS KIT

Brooke Ann Barard was born in New Orleans, Louisiana, a place well known for its storytellers. Her parents, an Afro-Hispanic mother and an African American (creole) father advocated for believing in and pursuing one's dreams. They were both entrepreneurs, and Brooke spent most of her childhood doing what she loves, creating stories. This support and creative free rein in her youth went a long way toward her future success as the author of children's books and her other entrepreneurial endeavors.

Brooke spent her elementary school years onward living in Atlanta, Georgia, with her mother and grandmother. Both women inspired and encourage Brooke immensely. After high school Brooke attended Kennesaw State University, graduating with a degree in Communications and Music and Entertainment Business. After college, Brooke took a year off to explore and absorb more content for her children's stories.

Brooke is the author of two children's books to date, Believe In Yourself and Head Start Is Me; both books are available in English and Spanish. Brooke's company, The One in Me, LLC, was created to help kids learn to write their own stories and develop their ideas. Brooke has done speaking engagements with for over 5,000+ people on a national and everyday classroom scale. She hosts writers workshops for classrooms of students and occasionally adults. Helping kids understand they can be anything they want and accomplish any dream they set their minds too, which is a part of Brooke's life mission. She loves how their minds can absorb new information and how willing they are to dream and create.

Brooke often finds herself helping someone build upon their careers and advocating for others in the entrepreneurial field. Brooke's family is vital to her, and she always enjoys spending time with them.

Author & Founder of The One In Me, Brooke Barard, is on a Mission to Empower Children to Believe in Themselves

Kennesaw, Georgia, Release: 2021. For Immediate Release

Brooke Barard – a Georgia-based children’s book author and founder of the company The One In Me – is on a mission to empower young children with the tools and skills they need to believe in themselves and know that they can accomplish anything they put their minds to.

As the author of two successful children’s books and a “Head Start kid” herself, Brooke has worked in the education space for 8 years. Her company, The One in Me, aims to empower children to believe in themselves and their potential through promoting literacy, conducting events, hosting workshops and speaking engagements. Using best practices and a tested pedagogical approach, its activities all aim to promote community involvement at the grassroots level, ensuring strong support and the long-term success of its young participants.

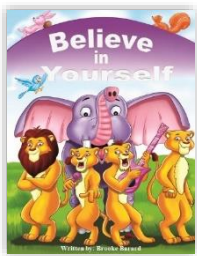

“When I was growing up, my mom and I had a saying,” says Brooke. “She would tell me ‘Brooke, what does brilliant mean – smart! What does smart mean – brilliant! What does that equal to – ME!’. The One in Me conducts activities designed to encourage every parent and teacher to instill these values into their children, so that they know and learn who they are, what they can be and to believe in themselves.”

MISSION STATEMENT

The One In Me strives to provide an uplifting, educational and literary experience for our youth. Through story and song, we aim to inspire, motivate and encourage the reader to maximize their potential and fulfill their dreams. Our goal is to assist in the development of a positive foundation for our next generation of readers.

What We Stand For:

Our goal is to assist young children in their learning development. We are dedicated to helping young kids believe in themselves and teaching them that they can accomplish anything they put their minds too.

What We Do:

Through our philanthropic efforts and community involvement we are able to satisfy our mission of empowering children to believe in themselves through our major initiatives of literacy, events, workshops, speaking engagements and various forms of community outreach.
